Not sure yet I tried it on two skulls. They are not as white as I would like but there are still grease spots. I used the degreaser and I didn't see any change in the skull. I sent pictures over and was told to just use the whitening. After two applications the spots are still showing. Would love for this product to work but not to confident at this point. I do about 200 skulls a year so it would save a lot of time. I'm going to try it on a few more and see what happens.
