Charles Lancaster double rifle in .375 2-1/2" Flanged, made in 1905 for tea magnate Sir AK Muir of Perthshire, Scotland. Includes original case. Gun is in excellent condition, 26" barrels certainly reblacked in modern times but not by me. Front sight bead missing from re-black, presently dot of white suffices in field. Bores are excellent, nearly pristine. Classic Scottish red stag caliber, the gun was moved to Kenya where the Muir family had tea plantations. Re-regulated by Westley Richards in 1959 for solids, probably for east Africa plains game. Very accurate, perfectly suited for deer, caribou, moose, black bear, elk. Lancaster's famous "wrist breaker" self-opening action and smooth non-fouling oval bore rifling. Action is tight, barrels are on face, extractors work. Research was done and includes copy of the original ledger entry. Comes with CH4D reloading dies, 60 Kynoch cases made in 2018, 100 Jamison cases, and 20 Bertram cases in original box, for a total of 180 correct brass cases. About 300 .375-caliber bullets of mostly 270-grain weight, and modern Lee resizing die to bring bullets down to .373" diameter, if desired. Some extra original sundries - nickel snap caps, oil bottle, ebony striker bottle. I use 50 grains of 4350, WLR primer, Kynoch brass, and vintage Hornady or modern Hawk bullets. Solid crimp is important. Serial # 012008. ALSO included is a collection of twenty-five (25) vintage .375 2-1/2" loaded rounds by many different makers; the different bullet types speak to the versatility of the cartridge. Buyer must have a long time A+ presence on GunBroker, or the purchase attempt will not be honored. UPDATE: This firearm requires handloaded ammunition. Factory ammunition has not been made for this caliber since the 1950s. All components a buyer requires to easily handload his own ammunition are included with this rifle.
