How "ambidextrous" is this product in actual use? I bought a PAST shield which is supposed to be compatible for left-handed use but in reality it's both clumsy and unsightly to try and do so.

I'm a lefty and I use it just fine. Takes a min to figure out how to use it as a lefty but, when you do it works just fine.

Yes, the pad is removable – it's a rubbery/plastic material with short nubby "fingers" on both sides that seems very similar to panels used in labs to cushion dropped glassware during washing or use.💎 It works with full charge. 45-70 loads in a trapdoor Springfield.

I bought the Limbsaver ...

I bought the Limbsaver Protective Shooting Pad with the idea of using it in conjunction with my shooting vest (which already has a removable recoil in the inside pocket) to make the kick from my .45-70 Springfield Trapdoor Rifle and Carbine a little more bearable. Actually, the Limbsaver by itself d...

Pad is 'slippery' which ...

Pad is 'slippery' which makes it difficult to keep a steel butt plate in your shoulder properly when shooting offhand. Especially true if you shoot rifle in a bladed style high power competition position. I will be modifying mine to work better. Maybe cutting a section out of the front to allow the ...

Wife loves it!!!

Bought this Limbsaver Recoil Pad for my wife. She was getting leery of shooting due to the bruising and soreness she was getting to her shoulder. She was skeptical with how thin it was, but very impressed with it after using it. She now enjoys the larger bore firearms.

I would buy again!

Bought this for sighting in my muzzleloaders. Works great! Reduces felt recoil 40-50%.

I recommend this for anyone who needs to dampen recoil.

I use the pad to dampen recoil from a hot spring gun after a reverse shoulder replacement. It works!

Limbsaver is great stuff

I have used Limbsaver products for years and they are all great and do what the manuf. says they will. Call them if you have a question and they are very helpful.

Excellent

Excellent at absorbing recoil. I have bursitis in my shoulders and it makes shooting comfortable. I had stopping shooting due to the pain but starting up again. Avid shooter.

Saves the shoulder!

After a range session with my steel-butted Mosin-Nagant that left me with a bruised and sore shoulder, I decided I better take some corrective action! I chose this one from all the strap-on recoil pads Midway offers and am very happy with its fit and performance. Now able to shoot unpadded guns safely wearing a summer shirt or T-shirt. It is also trim enough to wear under a long sleeve shirt or light jacket on cooler days. Great product, very satisfied.

I, too, have used the PAST recoil shield

The PAST doesn't even come close to the Limbsaver. I have an artificial shoulder and if it wasn't for Limbsaver products my hunting and shooting days would be over.

Shoulder Saver

I use to make fun of my shooting buddy for having one of these. I have a falling block 45/70. Shooting it off hand isn't too bad. Shooting it at the bench is brutal. A three shots max and my shoulder was bruised. I've been shooting for years so I know how to shoulder a rifle. With this pad I can shoot as much as I want. Really a smart purchase. It is so thin I'm not sure how it works but it does.
