Due to the packaging and shipping process, case necks are often slightly dinged or bent and need to be rounded up and sized to give proper neck tension. New and/or fired cases must be full-length resized or have the expander ball of the sizing die run through the case neck prior to loading.

- ★★★★★ very good quality Brass
By John H. on Dec 04, 2023

A quality brass with a quality bullet that is consistent in weight, length and quality that translates to consistent performance on the range. At 200 yards with a hit area within in a circle of 7/8" using this brass with a 300 gr. Barnes triple shock bullet. Placed right behind the shoulder, downed (dropped in its track) a large Elk. instant kill as it should be! Good components produce quality accurate ammo!
- ★★★★★ Price and availability
By Matthew H. on Nov 10, 2023

In the past I've been told PPU was the Serbian equivalent of Lapua, Nosler, and Norma in terms of high quality cartridge brass. I've received odd pieces of PPU brass in 223, 308, 338 Lapua, and probably handgun when buying once-fired brass. I've never had any remarkable issues with it so bought some 375 H&H new brass. It is available, it is a reasonable price, and at worst I get one load out of it. Flash holes have a very slight burr at most, primer pockets do not get cut by uniformer, and overall condition looks good. 20 rounds loaded with both flat base and boat tail just fine. Admittedly, I get to "cheat" with belted magnum brass because I have the Larry Willis belted magnum collet sizing die and I don't load max pressure, so the above-the-belt bulge has never been a problem I have with my brass. Time will tell, as I don't shoot this rifle as much as some others. 300 pieces will probably last longer than I have left alive.

By Michael M. on Oct 16, 2023

Everyone is right about it being less costly than other brands. That being said. It can not be true with the shipping costs! It cost me $18 just to ship 1 bag of 50 cases to Alaska! I know for a fact it doesn't cost me that much to mail a similar weight package to the Lower 48!... So 3 stars.

Good brass cases. Loaded multiple times with no issue. Would definitely buy again. Price is good too.

By WAYNE D. on Sep 15, 2023

I first bought Prvi for the price and used it for practice. Then loaded the "good" stuff for my African hunts. Depending upon the species, I carry a Kreighoff double or a Mauser bolt rifle. Both chambered in 375H&H. I've used a variety of bullets and powers in both rifles. I've experienced no problems either loading these cases, or loading firing, firing and extracting them in either rifle. Try it I think you'll like it too.

Seems to be good brass--good price for sure--10 rds loaded fine. James D. Sept 6, 2023
- ★★★★★ PPU 375 H and H brass
By Michael S. on Aug 22, 2023

This is my first experience with PPU brass and I only bought it because nothing else was available. This brass is as good or better than every other manufacturer. What makes it really special is that it is fairly priced. Once you have enjoyed using this brass you are unlikely to want to spend a fortune on the other brands!
- ★★★★★ Quality
By Tim A. on Aug 04, 2023

Great brass at a fraction of others cost.
- ★★★★★ PPU .375 H&H cases
By LAWRENCE J B. on Aug 01, 2023

I have used this brand of brass, in .270 Winchester, .30-06 Springfield, 7mm Remington Magnum, 300 Winchester Magnum, and .375 H&H Magnum. I have found it to be consistent, strong, and quite usable. With proper care it can be reloaded several times. And all of it I have purchased from Graf & Sons, and have always had stellar service. Definitely a win, win.

Seems to be good brass. I ordered two then reordered two more. recommended
- ★★★★★ Good stuff
By Kevin T. on May 10, 2023

Went through my inventory and found I needed some brass, 375 H&H, for an upcoming, April '24 African hunt. In these great times for handloader, sarcasm inserted, Nothing is in stock. Saw Graf's had some Prvi Partizan in stock so ordered it. I've found it to be as good as anything else there is/was out there. Looks like I'll be trying more. Good Stuff
- ★★★★★ Prvi 375 H/H Brass
By Jeff H. on May 09, 2023

This is decent quality brass at an affordable price. When loaded to moderate pressures i have experienced very little stretch with this brass. Another great product from Graf's.

been looking for 375 h&h brass for a long time, glad u got it in stock, have used this brand in the past and can say nothing bad about it, try it, you will like it
- ★★★★★ PPU brass
By Samuel S. on Apr 19, 2023

Clearly annealed, fast shipping. It arrived in great shape, no crushed necks or dented bodies. Glad to finally see it in stock, I've been waiting over a year. I've used PPU before in several others calibers and it's always been great for me.
- ★★★★★ PPU 375H&H Brass
By Jeffrey D. on Apr 19, 2023

I have had very good luck with PPU brass in general, and the 375 is no exception. Compared to some other brass, it is slightly higher capacity, but does not do so at the cost of case life. This company continues to support shooters with popular, common firearms. I appreciate that, as compared to companies that are continually introducing new cartridges and using up production capacity with little concern for shooters with more common, established calibers.
- ★★★★★ GOOD QUALITY
By DAVID A. on Apr 18, 2023

Shipment was delivered in a timely manner and the brass appears to be a quality product. Graf's & Prvi Partizan for the win!
- ★★★★★ I have it a try and it seems to work good
By Scott J. on Dec 06, 2020

I finally loaded up the brass. I haven't shot the loads but I have not encountered any issues loading it. It was reasonably priced. Hopefully they last a long time.

Used in my Weatherby 375 H&H. Excellent brass and purchased at very reasonable price.

By Dan B. on Oct 18, 2020

Have never used Prvi brass before but so far I find it very good especially when one considers its price and the fact that it's available. My preference has always been Win but that changed quickly as it is apparently no longer available. There are other brands out there but at twice the cost or more and in my experience they don't last twice as long. I still have 10 unused Win cases so I measured those ten of I took my usual load of 1 4350 dropped it two grs (in keeping with my Powley) and was in business. Lost about 60 fps but that loss in concert with the 300 gr Hornady will hardly change the outcome of my pursuits. I usually see the deadened ring of incipient CH separation after 5 reloads--even with neck sizing only-- but not with the Prvi. Signed Happy 3/8" H&H shooter
- ★★★★★ Good brass
By David E. on Jul 28, 2020

I bought this brass to blow out for my 375 weatherby. This is good hard brass like lapua. There was one case that was undersize so sort them and weigh. Your scale will tell you if a case is out of spec. For the price I think this brass is a steal.

I have been using Prvi Partizan brass for a number of years, its the least expensive and as good as any other brass Ive tried..
- ★★★★☆ Got shorted on quantity
By John A. on Oct 14, 2018

I bought a couple of bags of Prvi Partizan .375 H&H brass. I've used this brand reloading various rifle calibers and have been happy with the quality, never yet had a dented case neck or other issue. I am irritated, however, that my bag of 50 was actually only a bag of 49. That cost them a star, otherwise I'd give this product five stars.
